Investment strategy

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki is a value-based emerging markets equity fund. It seeks to generate long-term capital growth through an actively managed, high conviction portfolio of companies which are listed in, or have significant exposure to, developing markets. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.

Cost information

For explanation of the overall impact of costs on the investment and expected returns please refer to the Key Information Document.

Ongoing cost: 2,00 % (Of which management fee is: 2,00 %)

Performance fee: 10,00 % (see prospectus for details)

Risk profile (SRI)

We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets. A medium risk class rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level. Other risks materially relevant to the PRIIP not included in the summary risk indicator: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk and currency risk. If the fund invests in securities in a currency other than the fund's base currency, the value is affected by changes in the exchange rate. In addition, the value of your payout may be affected if your local currency is different from the fund's currency. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

Q3 commentary, September 2026

Emerging Market equities outperformed Developed Markets in September, in a month shaped by tighter financial conditions. The Federal Reserve (Fed) raised rates for the first time since 2023, and with US Treasury yields above 5% and a firmer dollar, emerging market currencies and local-currency bonds came under pressure. Tension around the Strait of Hormuz kept oil prices volatile.

Beneath the headline numbers, markets split along two lines: exposure to AI, and sensitivity to oil and interest rates. Taiwan and Korea rose on strong demand for chips. China fell on worries about growth and a Trump-Xi summit that produced little beyond an extended trade truce. India fared worst of the larger markets. As a big oil importer, it suffered most from dearer crude and higher US yields, both of which weighed on the rupee.

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki lagged its benchmark in September but outperformed over the third quarter as a whole. The largest contributors in September were Assai, Samsung Electronics and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company (TSMC). Brazilian cash-and-carry retailer Assai re-rated on improving sentiment towards Brazilian equities ahead of the presidential election, and on lower interest rates. Samsung Electronics gained on the continuing AI-driven shortage of memory chips. TSMC, the fund's largest holding, continues to benefit from AI investment: its August sales rose 44% year on year in dollar terms. Even so, with a 16% weight in the benchmark, the stock remains a drag on the fund's relative performance. Over the quarter, the strongest contributors were Hana Financial, Samsung Electronics and Assai. Chinese internet stocks were the main detractors. Naspers and Prosus were dragged down by weakness at Tencent, their principal underlying holding, and the sour mood across the sector also weighed on JD.com. Over the quarter, the main detractors were Naspers, Axis Bank and WH Group.

We remained active, as market volatility created further opportunities to adjust the portfolio. In September we initiated two new positions: Bank Mandiri, one of Indonesia's largest banks, and the Korean memory-chip maker SK Hynix. The Kon-Tiki team spent time on the ground in Jakarta during the month. Indonesia is out of favour with global investors, which has given us the chance to invest in Bank Mandiri, a high-return franchise valued at about 1.2x book value and offering a double-digit dividend yield. We retain maximum exposure to Samsung, and have added SK Hynix as we see a growing probability of a prolonged memory cycle. The company has committed to returning more than 50% of free cash flow to shareholders, which translates into an attractive yield for every quarter the super-profits last. We continued to build our recently initiated positions in Gentera and Telkom Indonesia, and took advantage of the market swings to add to WH Group, Coca-Cola İçecek, Hyundai Motor and Axis Bank. We reduced Korean Re, PZU, Allegro and Petrobras after strong performance, and made minor adjustments to TSMC and Hana Financial to comply with UCITS rules. There were no exits.

At month-end, the portfolio traded at 8x 2026 earnings and 1.2x book value, compared with 11x earnings and 2.4x book value for the MSCI Emerging Markets index. We still believe cautious positioning is prudent, though we acknowledge that the range of outcomes for the AI investment cycle, including how long it lasts, is wide. With index returns still concentrated and growing more volatile, we believe disciplined, price-driven rebalancing and bottom-up stock selection remain the most reliable route to durable returns.

Sustainability

SKAGEN's approach to sustainability

Our ESG approach is built on four pillars. In keeping with SKAGEN's active investment philosophy, our sustainability activities centre on active engagement with our holding companies, which is where we believe we can have the greatest impact. We recognise, however, that the full potential of a sustainable investment strategy is best realised when combining the following four pillars.

- ✓ Exclusion
- ✓ Enhanced due diligence
- ✓ ESG factsheet
- ✓ Active ownership

Article 8

Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR)

The product promotes environmental and social characteristics by directing its capital towards companies and issuers that meet defined ESG (environmental, social and governance) criteria. This is achieved through compliance with international norms and conventions, by taking into account negative impacts on sustainable development (PAI) and through product- or activity-based exclusions. See the prospectus for more information on the products sustainability characteristics.
